BRILLIANT PROGRAM FOR CHAUTAUQUA

"Taking Stock of a Town".
Sylvester A. Long will speak on the opening day upon some of the real foundations of community building.

Thomas Brooks Fletcher, the great dramatic orator, pronounced a leader of the younger lecturers and thinkers of this generation, will lecture.

Giuseppe Bartolotta, the Italian tenor, who studied in the Conservatory of Naples and who, before coming to this country, sang at concerts in England in conjunction with some of the most famous artists, will appear in solos on the coming Chautauqua program.

The Music Makers Male Quartet, in vocal solos and ensemble, and with a special feature in the form of a modern marimbaphone, will comprise another musical feature.

The Savronoffs, a trio of Russian players, in a program filled with dash and brilliancy, are also announced for this program.

"Joy Night" with its fun and freedom from care, will be in charge of John B. Ratto, that prince of entertainers who is already well known in the South, where he appeared on the opening night of the Redpath Chautauqua, a year ago. He is returned by popular request for a later night in Chautauqua week, when more people can hear him. The Maurer Sisters, now in their tenth year on the Chautauqua platform, will furnish the music for this day and evening. The instruments which they play are: the cornet, flute, violin, cello and piano.

Wells Watson Ginn will give a rendition of that stirring play, "The Man From Home," by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson.

The usual attention will be given to morning hour work and to the story hours and playground features for the children.

FORD TRACTOR READY SOON

prise.
The third announcement is that the last obstacle in the way of the immediate manufacture of the tractor, has been removed. It lay in the rear axle. The original tractor axle was practical, but not enough for Mr. Ford. He told, Monday, how he devised a new one. He was motoring back to Detroit from Harbor Beach with his son at the wheel.

"Stop a minute," said father to son. "If I don't say anything to you for a while, don't think I am crazy. I'm thinking about something."

The car stopped moving and Mr. Ford started thinking. Not a word was said. At the end of 40 minutes he looked up at his son and said: "Drive ahead. I've got it!"

The axle problem was solved to his satisfaction. The new axles are even now on the Ford tractors at Dearborn. It's a worm-gear contrivance, and non-floating, explains Mr. Ford.

THE RURAL CHURCH TO BE DISCUSSED AT THE M.A.C.

A diagnosis of the ills of the country church will be attempted at the Michigan Agricultural College July 5 to 16 by a conference of country pastors leaders in rural sociology and students of rural sociological problems. The conference will, in addition, serve as a school for leadership in rural communities, which persons desiring an insight into the problems of country life and communities will be at liberty to attend. But the big work of the conference will be that of analyzing the troubles of the country church. "A recent writer in the Outlook got at the nub of this trouble," declared Prof. E. H. Ryder, who is directing plans for the conference and the M. A. C. summer school, when he said that "there is no stronger sign of the prevailing weakness of the country church than its failure to hold the young people." The purpose of the conference and School for Leadership will be two-fold. The college hopes to furnish a fund of knowledge along definite lines—pertaining to rural affairs and then, in connection with this instruction, to consider the problem peculiar to rural society which are demanding attention today. Authorities at the college expect to make the conference a "clearing house" where ideas may be freely interchanged. The demands of rural society analyzed and efficient means of satisfying these needs thoroughly considered. In furtherance of these aims, the college will call in a body of men, all of them experts in the problems of rural sociology, to assist the members of the M. A. C. faculty in the work of the conference. Among these people will be Henry S. Curtis, author of "Play and Recreation in the Open Country;" Rev. Mathew Brown McNutt, lecturer on the rural church, of New York City Ernest Burnham, Professor of rural education at the eastern Normal, Kalamazoo; T. C. Blaisdell, President of Alma College; William A. Prator, expert in public charity, Paw Paw; Marj T. Murray, secretary of the state board of corrections and charities, Lansing; Frank F. Rogers, State highway commissioner, Lansing; I. R. Waterbury, editor of the Michigan Farmer, Detroit; Mrs. Mary Spencer, state librarian, Lansing and Dr. Eben Mumford, state director of farm management and field studies at M.A.C. The participation of these men in the conference, and the generally elaborate plans for the proposed probe into rural problems, is expected to make the two-week's school the most pretentious effort which has so far been put forth in Michigan in this field. The conference will, in addition, be one of the big features of the summer session at the college.

A FEW TRUTHS

He who hesitates is won—says the leap year girl who has just proposed.

A girl who gets to be an old maid has little faith in the efficiency of prayer.

A girl can quickly change her ideas of an eligible man to fit the one she can get.

The person who decides all questions from his own viewpoint is not a fair judge.

A man who can't make a name for himself is quite often satisfied to give one to a woman.

When it is said that a woman carries her age well it is meant that she carries it where no one will ever find it.

Lots of bighearted people don't let their sympathy go below the waist line—and carry their money in their pants' pocket.

In the clothes they wear women should learn the distinction between those that are attractive and those that are attracting.

The married man who goes away from home to hunt trouble would walk along a street lined with gold pieces and never see them.

Belonging to one political party or another must be largely a matter of habit—otherwise how could there be anyone in the parties opposed to ours?

"For Galls, We Want No Other"

"For sore breast and galls this does the business," wrote L. House, of Syracuse, N. Y. "In fact, we want nothing better than Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh." Mr. House is one of several thousands who have found out for themselves that this liniment is best of all for external ills of man or beast. When applied by a man to domestic animals, it works wonders. When applied to humans by the mother of the household, it heals like magic, whether the ailment be one of the everyday little cuts or bruises, or whether it be a "hard case."

For Galls, Wires, Cuts, Lameness, Strains, Bunches, Thrush, Old Sores, Nail Wounds, Foot Rot, Fistula, Bleeding, Pipe Sores, Etc.
